The Early Childhood faculty is proposing to make several minor changes to four of the courses in its undergraduate program.

1) The faculty is proposing that enrollment in the course EDEC 336, Culturally Relevant Pedagogy in Early Childhood Education, be restricted to those students who have a declared major in early childhood education. (major code 311) EDEC 336 is a required course for those seeking a degree in early childhood education. The faculty has limited instructional staffing resources and must protect the enrollments for those students for whom the course is required.

2) The Early Childhood faculty is proposing to add a pre-requisite to the following courses: EDEC 342/EDEC 342P and EDEC 347. Students typically enroll in these courses in the fall of the junior year. Currently, students are eligible to apply for admission to the Professional Program at the end of the fall semester. However, effective July 15, students will seek admission to the professional program during the summer prior to the fall courses. The faculty wants to ensure that those students denied admission to the Professional Program are ineligible to enroll in the fall block of Early Childhood courses.
