

This Page Intentionally Left Blank

- New Genre Demonstration
- Ok, so what's your definition of

Class Log 6/28/06 20 Min. Formal Presentations mini Lesson

- Who for? Superintendents/Boards/Faculties
- Format: "Tell 'em what you gonna tell 'em, Tell 'em, Tell 'em what you told 'em"
- E.G.

20 Min. Formal Presentations

Teachers present to:
Students (their own)
Students (others in classes with them)
Faculties
Teacher Groups
Professional Development Groups

*Teachers would like to present to:
Superintendents
Boards of Trustees
Legislative Committees Governors (If
Sanford's advertisement is true!)*

20 Min. Formal Presentations

The format presented today is the "military briefing" format adopted by the Harvard Business & Law Schools in the early 1990s for "presenting" to CEOs, boards of directors, etc. It's still the major format in use in "big" business and corporate law firms around the country.
Source: Mark L. Hershberger, Esq. Vice President, Southeast Region, LandAmerica

- "Tell 'em what you're gonna tell 'em"- Introduction
- "Tell 'em"- Body
- "Tell 'em what you told 'em"- Summary/Conclusion/ etc.

20 Min. Formal Presentations
E.G. "Class Logs"-1

- When you make the student valuable, then the writing will be valuable.
- "Handwriting is your fingerprint on the world."

20 Min. Formal Presentations
E.G. "Class Logs"-2

- Journals (writer's notebooks) are "windows to the personality past."
- Read-Aloud: The Other Side- Society doesn't change hearts, hearts change society.

20 Min. Formal Presentations
E.G. "Class Logs"-3

- Shapeshifting Poetry: titling strategies, re-reading>group read aloud, reading/thinking engagement exercises
- Create an "interpretive (risk free) community in the classroom."
- Troggs, blogs, & emails; but no tribbles for our troubles!
- Balloons and Tim Bunch

20 Min. Formal Presentations

- "Formal Presentations for the Ivory Tower People"
- Tell them, tell them, tell them!
- Class Log for 6/28/06

?Questions Anyone?